

I-SYNC RGS School Exhibition 2018

On 23 June 2018, RGS opened its gates to unveil an exhibition that was truly one of its kinds.

I-SYNC (Explore Science Youth Nature Culture) showcased innovative notions and designs spanning across motley of subject matter. The event was conceptualised in the form of a book through which Nadia, a personified figure, coursed her way through the pages – each embodying different themes. Mr Angshuman Bora, Senior Advocate and member of RGU Governing Body, graced the occasion as the Chief Guest.

The first page presented a lifelike portrayal of the condition of women as well as the treatment meted out to them by a society that is largely patriarchal in its mind-set. However, it also brought about a glimmer of hope through its representations of the myriad ways in which women have, though the ages, broken the shackles of oppression to reach the zenith of Success. The next page was swamped with emotions running high as students left an indelible mark on the minds of the audience through their verses. The subsequent pages ushered in a wave of technological novelties in sync with Nature. Nadia was then taken on a whirlwind tour of Indian traditions infused with a dash of modernity. She then travelled to the world of Shakespearean Plays and was swooned by the soliloquies of Romeo, Hamlet and other profound figures concocted by the Bard.

Moving on, Nadia got accustomed to the multi-layered dimensions of the Human Mind as perceived by Psychology, the intricacy of Mathematical Derivations, the infinite possibilities of Space De-cluttering as well as the best methods of investment that guarantee optimum profit. She then got a taste of multi linguistic expositions ranging from poetry to dance forms. The page dedicated to Art lent expression to Nature and its hues as well as human emotions. The Sports Page showcased the accomplishments of RGS while maintaining the on-going FIFA fervour. Nadia then let down her hair to some foot tapping numbers and sang to her heart's content in an impromptu Jam- Session. Thus ended Nadia's journey as she turned the last page of this book and found herself replete and rejuvenated with a new horizon of knowledge and infinite possibilities.
