

LOU MAJAW VISITS RGS

On 9th February, 2017, Shillong musician Lou Majaw was welcomed amidst cheers and applause at the Colloseum, Royal Global School. The Royalites had a good fortune of a sudden rendezvous with the famous Khasi singer of North East. The immediate rapport was built as he started narrating a story, reciting and singing songs. Guitarist and singer from Shillong, Lou Majaw is India's Bob Dylan' — has been Dylan's faithful troubadour, echoing his assertion that popular songs could address war and peace, the human mind, and everything beyond. Accompanied by a budding you tube artist of the country, Kabir Singh also took the stage to enthrall the students with some Bollywood hit tracks. The students had an exciting time of musical bliss which for a time being transported them to a world of serenity away from the load of books.
